It does not pay to buy poor tools. They not only "go wrong," but aggravate the man who uses them.

You will lose your temper if you use poor tools; but you won't lose your temper if you use our tools, because they are properly tempered.

HALDEMAN PRESIDENT

Is Elected to Highest Office by the Kentucky Press Association

HOPKINSVILLE DAY A SUCCESS

Brilliant Reception by Mrs.
W. N. Stice Thursday, Closing Event.

So far as work is concerned, the annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association ended with Thursday morning's session, at which officers were elected and two able papers were read. The election of officers resulted in the unanimous choice of Col. W. B. Haldeman, of The Louisville Times, as President; Ed Shinnick, of the Shelby Record, as vice president, and J. C. Alcock, of the Jeffersonton Jeffersonian, as secretary, in the place of Shelton Saufley, of the Stanford Interior Journal, who declined re-election.

J. B. Stears, of the Nicholasville News, read an interesting paper on "Some Benefits Derived From District Leagues." Ed O. Leigh, of the Bowling Green Messenger, discussed entertainingly and instructively "The Doings of a Daily."

The morning, on the part of the ladies, was devoted to euchre and bowling. The association Thursday was the host of about one hundred of Hopkinsville business men who went to Cerulean to pay a return visit, the Kentucky Press having been the guests of Hopkinsville three years ago.

The Baseball game Wednesday between the eastern and western "teams" was won by the easterners 12 to 9. The victors were captained by A. D. Miller, of the Richmond Climax, and John Lawrence led the vanquished in a game fight against the brilliant pitching of Shelton

OVER AT LAST

Coronation Was Biggest Event
In Recent Years.

King George V. and Queen Mary were crowned in Westminster Abbey Thursday. It is said to have been the most brilliant coronation in history and the British people paid most enthusiastic tribute to their sovereign. Everything went off without a hitch. Even Queen Mary's crown was put on perfectly straight. The crowds were too big to estimate.

REMAINS OF CHILD

Brought Here and Interred Near Caledonia.

Bessie May Meers, the 2 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meers, formerly of this city, died in Nashville Wednesday and the remains were brought here Thursday and interred near Caledonia. Death was caused by tuberculosis. The child's mother is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nelson, of the Julien neighborhood.

Paralysis Causes Death.

Mrs. Josephine D. Poor died at the asylum Thursday of general paralysis, aged 72 years. The remains were sent to Olmstead, Ky., for interment Friday.

THOMPSON--BRASHER

West Virginian and Crofton
Lady to Marry.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to O. L. Thompson, of Logan, West Virginia, and Miss Emma A. Brasher, of Crofton. The wedding is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Crofton. The groom-to-be is engaged in L. & N. revision work between Crofton and Mannington.

Cooke--Britt.

Frank T. Cooke, formerly of the Pembroke neighborhood, but now of Timpon, Texas, and Miss Lucile Britt, of the same place, were married a few days ago.

Keep Secret a Month.

Otto Martin and Miss Lena Cofage, married May 17, have just let out their secret at Leitchfield.

STREET OIL

Is Now Being Spread on the Principal Streets.

The heavy oil which has been delayed in coming is now being spread upon Main and other streets, where the subscriptions have been paid and turned into the city clerk's office. The grade is known as "60," containing asphalt enough to make a coating that proved last year to be very durable and satisfactory. The citizens generally are subscribing for the oil, paying 4 cents for each front foot, to the center of the street, and the city is putting the oil on and furnishing screenings to bind it.

DEPOT WORK

Long Delayed Finishing Touches
Being Put on Grass Plot.

The L. & N. Railroad is now finishing up the improvements around the depot grass plot, including a new concrete pavement on Ninth Street. The contract was let to the Meacham Contracting Co., which has a force of hands at work on it this week.

Out of Danger

Washington, June 23.—Mrs. Lea, wife of United States Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee, whose life is believed to have been saved by the transfusion into her veins of a quart of her husband's blood, is pronounced to be out of danger. Senator Lea has recovered his strength.

There is no more sacred duty that can devolve upon man, than the custody of money not his own. When, by reason of ill health or old age, men find it impossible to properly manage their valuable interests, and thereby to protect those whom they must leave behind them, it becomes necessary for them to seek another, who, representing them, can safely be entrusted with their property, and who will conscientiously inspect their wishes and anxieties.

In the July number of Popular Mechanics Magazine there are no less than 277 articles describing the developments of a month in science, mechanics and allied subjects. These articles cover a wide range of activity and discuss matters of interest to persons in every occupation. They are elucidated by 301 illustrations, every one of peculiar interest.
"The Fatalities of Flight," by Victor Loughheed discusses some of the fallacious ideas in regard to the dangers of aviation and shows that many of the accidents now on record were entirely due to carelessly constructed or operated machines. A page map traces the flight of Pierre Vedrine from Paris to Madrid, and some fine illustrations depict the recent accident to the British war ship.

Sunset Magazine for July.

The uninformed observer of the cover of the current issue of Sunset Magazine may wonder at the choice of a dashing young lady in a bright red bathing suit poised airily on a surfboard and labeled, "The Call of Cool Seabreeze of the Los Angeles Beaches." The dashing young lady and the cool seabreeze are all right, but how about the surfboard? It appears to be true, however, that the South Sea Islands have no monopoly on this surf sport, for it is growing in popularity at the beaches of southern California wherever the contour of the beach is favorable. This unexpected feature, and many others which the California coast is remarkable in summer, are cleverly set forth by Peter B. Kyne, one of the most popular of the younger story tellers, in a breezy article dealing with the adventures of a certain Jones family who flee from the summer heat of Arizona to the "cost of enchanted summer." His article is profusely illustrated with brightly colored pictures of that gay region of bathing-suits and summer parasols.

TRAVELS OF TAILOR'S NEEDLE

Little Implement Moves Over About Twelve Miles in Every Day of Ten Hours' Work.

There are many people who, without walking, are constantly moving some portion of their bodies, and these moving portions cover, in the aggregate, an amount of space which is absolutely astounding. Take the case of a man who scarcely moves at all—a tailor. Seated Turkish fashion, he plies his needle from morning to night in order to have an overcoat or a pair of trousers ready for an important customer at the appointed time. His needle flies to and fro at the rate of about once a second. If we reckon a space of 10 inches as that covered by the course of the needle, what should you imagine this distance amounts to in a year? The figure is, to say the least of it, surprising—about twelve miles a day's work of ten hours, or nearly 4,000 miles for a year of 300 working days. In a little over six years the tailor's needle, and consequently his hand, will have covered a distance equal to the circumference of the globe.

TROUT FISHING AT NIGHT

Full Instructions Are Given by the Greatest of All Anglers, Isaac Walton.

You are to know there is night as well as day fishing for a trout; and that in the night the best trouts come out of their holds. And the manner of taking them is on the top of the water with a great lob or garden worm, or rather two, which you are to fish with in a stream where the waters run somewhat quietly, for in a stream the bait will not be so well discerned. I say in a quiet or dead place, near to some swift, there draw your bait over the top of the water, to and fro, and if there be a good trout in the hole, he will take it, especially if the night be dark, for then he is bold, and lies near the top of the water, watching the motion of any frog or water rat, or mouse, that swims betwixt him and the sky; these he hunts after if he sees the water but wrinkle or move in one of these dead holes, where these great old trouts usually lie, near to their holds; for you are to note that the great old trout is both subtle and fearful, and lies close all day, and does not usually stir out of his hold, but lies in it as close in the day as the timor-ous hare does in her form; for the chief feeding of either is seldom in the day, but usually in the night, and then the great trout feeds very boldly.—
Walton's Compleat Angler.

Creams are usually delicate, and are Amusement-Park Antics.

The Marvelous Monkeyshine" is the rather enigmatical title of an article by Edgar F. Stearns in the July number of Popular Mechanics. This is Mr. Stearns' term for the modern obsession otherwise known as the "amusement park." The article, which is in jocular vein, describes not merely the new mirth-provoking devices of the present season but their resulting sensations as well.
The article is illustrated.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Cardwell and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs.
It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

KEEPING THE STREETS CLEAN

Suggestions of New York Man for Securing Pure Air in the Large Cities.

William Van V. Hayes of New York presents suggestions for improving the care of the streets in New York so as to secure pure air. All sorts of micro-organisms are found in the dust of the streets; anthrax, tuberculosis, diphtheria, tetanus, typhoid and dysentery have been detected in it. The tubercle bacillus when dried in large, thick crusts and left in a cold, dark place like a corridor will live for six to eight months. The bad condition of the streets is in part due to carelessness of the citizens and in part to antiquated methods of cleaning. The removal of ashes in cans on a long automobile cart, without emptying them in the street, is advocated. The use of vacuum cleaning wagons is advisable. The people must be educated not to throw things into the street. Spitting should be forbidden in the streets as well as on sidewalks and proper receptacles provided. Cats and dogs should not be kept in the city and automobiles should take the place of the horse, whose manure soils the streets. Flushing the streets should be more frequent. The subway should have in front of stations an improved roadbed that can be cleaned properly; the entering air should be screened and dust-gathering cars should pass over the road at intervals.—Medical Record.

KOSHER KITCHEN IN SCHOOL

In the Jewish District of New York Food Is Especially Prepared for Pupils.

Six hundred and thirty Jewish children of New York had luncheon the other day for the small sum of three cents each at the opening of the new kosher kitchen just installed in public school No. 92. This is the third large school in the city to operate its own lunch room.

The idea is to determine whether children in New York elementary schools suffer from malnutrition and whether serving lunch at cost price in the school buildings will tend to raise the standard of scholarship in the Jewish district, the cooking is done according to kosher methods.

Before school each morning brass checks good for one full meal are sold in the school yard. At nine o'clock word is sent to the cook as to the number of luncheons that will be required, at noon. This does away with all waste of food. The meals are served by the children and they do the clearing up and the dish washing under supervision.

Many of the children come from homes where the mothers work out by the day and there is no one to prepare the luncheon should they go home for it. The medical examination shows that the children who have partaken of the lunches are in far better physical condition and are doing better school work than those who have done without.

"God Save the King."

We have no real knowledge of "God Save the King" before the rebellion of '45, when it became a popular loyalist song, but tunes of the same shape had existed long before. One is to be found in a book "Ayres," dated 1619, by Dr. John Bull, and another as a minuet by Purcell. According to another theory, the tune of "God Save the King" used to be sung in James II.'s private chapel to a Latin hymn beginning "O Deus Optime," and after the revolution of 1688 was preserved by members of the Stuart family, till it was performed publicly about 1742, on the birthday of the princess of Wales. It is interesting to find that the words "God save the king" are in Coverdale's Bible of 1535, and seem to have been used there as a familiar phrase rather than a translation. "God save the king," according to Froude, was a watchword in the royal navy in 1545, the counter-sign being "Long to reign over us."—Country Life.

Turnips, Lamb—and Mutton.

We traveled with one of those troublesome fellow-passengers in a stage coach that is called a well-informed man. For 20 miles we discoursed about the properties of steam, probabilities of carriage by ditto, till all my science, and more than all was exhausted, and I was thinking of escaping my torment by getting up on the outside, when, getting into Bishop's Stortford, my gentleman, spying some farming land, put an unlucky question to me—"what sort of a crop of turnips I thought we should have this year." Emma's eyes turned to me to know what in the world I could say, and she burst out into a violent fit of laughter, maugre, her pale, serious cheeks, when, with greatest gravity I replied that "it depended, I believed, upon boiled legs of mutton."—Charles Lamb.

Rights of the Child.

Mrs. E. R. Weeks of Kansas City, well known in club circles of Missouri, was elected one of the vice-presidents of the Mothers' congress. Dr. Jeanette Bolles of Denver said at the last session of the convention that it had taken 20 centuries for parents to learn that it is a good rule that works both ways and that the commandment should read to them, "Honor thy son and thy daughter." She said it is a baby's right to be well born of healthy parents, who know how to care for themselves and their offspring.

WOMAN IS FREED BY UNWRITTEN LAW

Texas Jury Acquits Her of Charge of First Degree Murder.

STORY A SENSATIONAL ONE

For Two Years Woman Prayed for Her Victim, Then Shot Her When Prayer Did Not Prove Efficacious—Dead Woman Stole Her Husband.

Fort Worth, Tex.—The unwritten law in Texas applies to women as well as men, according to a jury at Fort Worth, which cleared Mrs. T. M. Brooks, charged with first degree murder in slaying Mrs. Mary Binford whom she charged with trying to break up her home. Insanity was the grounds she was freed on, but there was not a word on insanity mentioned in the trial. It was a plain case of the unwritten law and it was enough to free the woman.

Mrs. Brooks is the wife of a Fort Worth attorney. During the busy part of the day of January 16 last, she went to a large department store where Mrs. Binford was employed and shot her to death. She left a prayer meeting at her own home to accomplish the deed.

The story of how Mrs. Brooks, always prominent in Methodist church circles, prayed every day for two years that the Lord would make a better woman of Mrs. Binford, and how, after hearing, unwittingly, a telephone conversation between her husband and Mrs. Binford, Mrs. Brooks gave up the struggle and resolved to kill the woman who had spoiled her life, made one of the most sensational murder trials Texas has had for years.

It was Mrs. J. W. Boyd, formerly a next door neighbor of the Brooks', who declared that she knew of her own knowledge that the defendant had prayed for the redemption of Mrs. Binford, change her husband's disposition and end her troubles. Mrs. Boyd had talked to the witness frequently as to what course should be pursued to end matters so everybody would be satisfied and they decided that prayer alone could accomplish this.

"We were very happy until we moved to Fort Worth," said Mrs. Brooks on the stand. Then she told how Mrs. Binford came into her life nearly five years ago. She said: "She came to my husband's office to get a divorce, and Mr. Brooks called me up and said: 'Mamma, there is a woman in my office who wants me to do a little legal work for her. She has no friends in the city and little money. What do you say if I bring her up tonight?'"

"She came. That was the beginning. Welcoming her as a friendly young woman in a strange city and with a desire to give her a good start, I fostered the cause of my wrecked happiness, stood it as long as I could and then killed her."

GAVE AWAY CHICKEN LUNCH Leads to Discovery of Ancient Cold Storage Poultry—Twenty Thousand Pounds Condemned.

Cincinnati.—What amounted to practically a raid on cold storage poultry was completed by Doctor Blume, the city meat inspector. Within the month he and his assistants have condemned 20,000 pounds of cold storage poultry. Doctor Blume says he found meat that had been in cold storage for five years, some venison actually being stamped 1905.

Doctor Blume said that what first attracted his attention and suggested the investigation was the fact the cheap restaurants were selling a chicken dinner for 15 cents and that some saloons were supplying chicken in their free lunches. "I conjectured," Doctor Blume said, "that something must be the matter with poultry that could be sold at that figure."

FIRST CARICATURE OF BONEY

It Was Produced When Napoleon Was Yet at the Military Academy at Brienne.

Napoleon in caricature is one of the most prolific of subjects. Indeed European political caricature from 1798 until 1815 may be said to have been Napoleon. Although in France this form of pictorial art was rigidly suppressed, Gilray and Rowlandson in England and a score of artists in Germany and Austria were depicting the great emperor as the most infamous of monsters.

The first known caricature of Bonaparte was drawn years before the first consulate, when the Bourbons still sat upon the throne of France. It is reproduced in Norwood Young's "The Growth of Napoleon." Young Bonaparte's years at the military academy at Brienne were not happy ones. He was a Corsican, and at that time Corsica was a recently conquered province.

The cartoon, which was drawn by a schoolmate, represents the future emperor standing, a severe and determined look upon his face, with both hands on the top of a musket, resting the butt on the ground. A smaller figure behind him, an old man whose nose nearly reaches his chin, is pulling him back by his wig.

Napoleon's feet face in two directions—one forward, the other backward. Underneath is written: "Bonaparte rushes to the aid of Paoli to rescue him from the hand of his enemies." These words have been struck through with a pen, which has also been drawn across the face of Napoleon.—The Bookman.

NAPOLEON III. AT SEDAN

Zola's Story That He Rouged His Cheeks Before the Battle Is Absolutely Denied.

The author of "The Empress Eugenie, 1870-1910," writes: In Miscellany (April 10) you refer to "the story that Napoleon III., pale and haggard with illness, rouged his cheeks before the battle of Sedan, to make a fine and encouraging appearance before the troops," and Zola's description of the emperor on that fatal day is cited from the powerful "Debauche" in support of the "story." Allow me to say that, if the evidence of some who were with the emperor on the day of the battle is deemed worthy of consideration (and personally I have no doubt about it), Zola was entirely wrong. By his own account, he composed his marvelous narrative from hearsay. He had not the advantage, as I had, of being on the battlefield (with the Germans) from early morning until nightfall.

Some five years ago the question "Was the emperor's face rouged at the battle of Sedan?" was very fully discussed in the Paris papers, the late Paul de Cassagnac and the still living Robert Mitchell (who were with the emperor during the fighting) were among other eye-witnesses who gave an absolute denial to Zola's assertion. Others testify to the same effect. Princess Mathilde, the emperor's cousin, scouted the idea that Napoleon was rouged, although as she was not at Sedan her evidence is not of much account. On other points I can personally confirm Zola's picture of the horrors of the battlefield of the first of September, 1870.

What He Needed.

Upon the floor lay the glittering sovereign. The shopman was busy at the counter. No one else was by.

Quivering with excitement, Jimmy Slant dropped his glove upon the spot and then casually stooped to gather up his fallen gauntlet. But his hand was trembling so violently that he fumbled, missed the coin and rose with the glove alone clasped in his digits.

He dropped his glove again. He stooped again. He failed again.

As he was about to make his third effort to pick up the elusive gold piece the voice of the shopman sounded above him.

"May I sell you a bottle of this, sir?"

"Er—what is it?" inquired Slant, with his eye upon his glove.

"Liquid glue, sir," replied the shopman, blandly. "It sticks."

The Pancake.

The pancake is a distinctly American institution. It is eaten only in secret in our best families.

It would be eaten openly and above-board were it not that folk of the upper circles have to maintain their dignity before the servants.

Properly made, the pancake is a thing of beauty and a joy for the time being.

Improperly made, as it usually is, it is a blight upon life and a harassment to the stomach. A wrongly prepared pancake can stay with you longer than the after effects of pneumonia.

If our girls were taught how to make pancakes civilization would go forward so rapidly that those who are now trying to reform our social structure would be back numbers by day after tomorrow.

Biggest Thing on Water.

A new White Star Line steamer, the Olympic, has arrived at New York, the biggest vessel ever floated. She is 882½ feet long. While her displacement is 66,000 tons of water, her register is 45,000 tons against the 32,500 tons of the Lusitania. The Olympic's breadth over all is 92 feet 6 inches; height from bottom of keel to top of Captain's house, 105 feet 7 inches; distance from top of funnel to keel, 175 feet; number of water tight bulkheads, 15; passengers carried, 2,500 and crew, 860.

There are fourteen levels, and if one were to count the crew's nest he might figure fifteen. The depth of the hull of the Olympic is 64 feet 6 inches.

This floating caravansary is propelled at a continuous sea speed of 21 knots, by three screws, the two other ones being driven by two sets of triple expansion engines, while the central one is worked by a Parsons exhaust steam turbine. The total horse power is about 46,000.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2963 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Saulley and Clarence Woods and the heavy stick work of Mike O. Sullivan.

The grand march at Wednesday night's ball was led by Col. Haldeman and Mrs. Shelton Saulley, and was followed by a general dance.

The formal exercises of Thursday's "Hopkinsville Day" took place in the Pavilion at two o'clock with Mr. W. A. Wilgus as master of ceremonies for the visitors. Col. W. B. Haldeman, the President, presented Mr. Wilgus who made a brief and appropriate explanation of the visit and introduced Hon. John C. Duffy to make the formal address. Mr. Duffy took as his subject "Why we are Here" and made a happy and eloquent speech telling the editors of the pleasure it afforded the city of Hopkinsville to have so distinguished a body in its vicinity.

President Haldeman responded to the address of welcome in an appropriate address and called upon Mr. H. A. Sommers, who also made a brief speech complimenting the ladies especially.

From 4:30 to 5:30 a brilliant reception was given to the editors and their visitors, which was the closing social event. Mrs. Stice gave a similar reception three years ago, but this time the affair was far more elaborate and was attended by about two hundred.

Mrs. W. D. Nobb, Mrs. R. S. Pool, Mrs. B. F. Smith, Mrs. J. G. White and Misses Alvia and Docia Goodwin, Sudie Smith, Lois Pool and Hume Turney assisted Mrs. Stice in doing the honors and the occasion was in every sense a success. Refreshments of the most delicious character and in bountiful variety were served with unstinted hospitality. As a mark of their appreciation, the beautiful floral banner presented to the K. P. A. by the people of Hopkinsville was in turn presented to Mrs. Stice, and Lebkeucher's Concert Band was sent over to the Stice home, close by the hotel, to compliment the hostess with some stirring music.

The Association dispersed yesterday, though a few members will linger until the end of the week.

ENTHUSIASTIC FOR ADDAMS

Rush C. Watkins Says The Progressive Element is Flocking to Him.

Mr. Rush C. Watkins, of Louisville, was in Hopkinsville one day this week on a business trip. Mr. Watkins is enthusiastically for Addams for governor, and his prediction is that he will sweep the State. Mr. Watkins is one of our progressive young men and is largely interested in the farming interests of Kentucky, in fact, he is the largest handler of Kentucky farms in the State, and he says that we must have a young progressive man for Governor who will help to lead the young men of our State.

"While Mr. Addams is not a great orator," he said, "nor is he as well known as his opponent, still he is a successful, progressive, intelligent, honest business man, with everything these words imply, and his moral influence on the young, progressive element over the State of Kentucky will be tremendously felt.

We need good roads, good schools, and we need encouragement in up-building rural districts of Kentucky. We should have a large production of farm products in this State, we should bend every energy to prevent the young men from leaving the State, we should use our every influence to keep the intelligent, energetic young men at home to help build up the country, and shape things so that they will be successful and prosperous in their vocation as farmers. In order to do this we must have a progressive State administration headed by a man who has a future before him.

We all respect the venerable old gentleman who is in the race for the nomination for Governor, but it has come to a point when we must use every effort at our command to develop our resources in the State."

CIRCUIT COURT.

Commonwealth Matters Are Still Receiving Attention.

On peremptory instructions from Judge Hanbery the indictments against Luther Haydon and others, found at the last term of court, were dismissed. The indictments grew out of the financial troubles of the Terry Coal Co., it being alleged that cash orders for coal were not filled. There was an unavoidable delay in shipping the coal, but the troubles have been, or will be, adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned.

But little has been done this week. The failure to try the Acme Mills cases left the docket unsettled.

O. H. Halthcoat, charged with housebreaking, forfeited a $300 bond and Tom Fowler, malicious cutting, jumped a $200 bond.

The important criminal cases of the term, Herbert Cobb, murder, and Karl Kolb, bigamy, are set for next week.

Yesterday Ben Bacon charged with stealing hides from J. O. Meacham at Gracey was tried and given 30 days in jail, defendant's attorney made a motion to set the verdict aside on the ground that the indictment was not read to the jury.

DOG TAX DUE.

July 1, is The Date Upon Which Taxes Must be Paid.

July 1 is the date on which all dogs within the city must be supplied with a new tag showing that the license tax of $1 has been paid on them for the coming year. In case any dog owner fails to pay this tax he is subject to a fine of $5. The inspector will be around early in the month hunting for dogs that have no tags and those who neglect to pay will be summoned into police court for violating the law.

CALLED OFF.

Owing to scarcity of raw material the barbecue and picnic at Crofton, billed for July 4, is hereby called off. Citizens of Crofton.

Dowell's Great Catch.

The Henderson Gleaner gives this account of a great play made there Wednesday:

"It was put on by John Dowell, third sacker for Harrisburg, who, by the way, slammed a home run earlier in the game. Crofton tapped a foul to the left of third base. It was about thirty feet to the side, and all who saw Dowell begin chasing for it deemed him very foolish for attempting it.

Dowell ran like a wild man, though, and came up with the ball just before it was ready to kiss the ground. Dowell speared it, but his momentum was so great that he had to continue going.

In front of him were two horses, their heads nearly together, but just far enough apart to permit Dowell to slide through.

Still unable to slow up, Dowell had to jump the fence lining the race course before being able to stop.

The feat caused the crowd to split the air with noise of approval, and as the third station tender walked toward the players corner he had to take off his hat to his admirers.

The game was an auspicious opening for the Kitty league in Henderson. It scintillated with fast ball.

Vote For Hamlett.

Aside from being our neighbor, Prof. Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, is one of Kentucky's best school men, and he is entitled to the support of every Democrat in the county at the State primary on the 1st of July. The Democrats of Trigg should not become indifferent as to the outcome of the primary, as men like Ollie James and Prof. Hamlett are deserving of our support, and all Trigg county Democrats should take at least an hour or two off in the afternoon and go to their voting precinct and vote for the men of their choice. —Cadiz Record.

Dumb Chills and Fever.

Douglasville, Tex.—"Five years ago I was caught in the rain at the wrong time," writes Miss Edna Rutherford, of Douglasville, "and from that time was taken with dumb chills and fevers, and suffered more than I can tell. I tried everything that I thought would help, and had four different doctors, but got no relief, so I began to take Cardui. Now I feel better than in many months." Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That's the secret of its 50 years of success. As a tonic there is nothing in the drug store like it. As a remedy for women's ills, it has no equal. Try it. World's Record Beaten Gulfport, Miss., June 23.—A Mississippi woman claims the world record for twins, having given birth to five pairs, a total of ten children, within a period of eight years. The woman who thus displays her unalterable opposition to race suicide, is Mrs. J. D. Pigario of Gulfport.

Sold Three Autos.

The Ideal Motor Co. sold three E. M. F. No. 30, 5-passenger touring cars, last Tuesday. The following were the purchasers: Frank Snadon, of Guthrie; J. D. Sharp, of Earlington, and H. A. Keach, of this city.

Purely Personal

Miss Lizzie Hoksins, adopted daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lyon, left Monday morning for Louisville, where she will join kin folks for a trip to Baltimore and Washington, then by ocean steamer to Boston, Mass., there she will spend a few weeks at Manomet Beach. She will return sometime in September.

Miss Metabeth Sory, of Madisonville, is visiting Miss Bessie Wallace.

Mr. Omer P'Pool, who is now traveling for an Indianapolis firm, was in town last Thursday.

Mr. Ernest Binns is visiting his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb C. Bell arrived this week from Indianapolis for a stay of two weeks.

Ed Lawson and wife, of Columbus, S. C., are here on a visit to the family of Mr. R. C. Lawson.

Robt. L. Green, candidate for the Democratic nomination for clerk of the Court of Appeals, was in town yesterday. This county went for him in a former race and he will doubtless carry it again.

Miss Violet Owen is at Sebree Springs.

Miss Winifred Lewis, of Bowling Green, is visiting Miss Louise Jones.

Miss Margaret Dalton is visiting the Misses Beasley, at Rutherford, Tenn.

Bud O'Brien, formerly receiver at the asylum, now a commercial traveler, was in town this week.

Mrs. Frank H. Bassett and children, of Nashville, are visiting Col. Bassett's family.

—Pastor Millar A. Jenkins, Owensboro, Ky., had the joy to baptize Hon. G. Wilson, speaker of the House at Frankfort, Ky. Mr. Wilson has taken charge of the boys' department in the Sunday school and they are at work for 100 boys.—Baptist World.

Canada's Mixed Races.

The Bible is already sold in Canada in 90 different tongues, but 17 other races are now asking that editions be printed in their languages. The British Foreign Bible society has published the Scriptures in 424 different tongues, but it seems 17 more must be made to meet the needs of Canada's

THEY WISHED TO TELL BILL

So Wife and Sister of Deceased Spiritualist Went to Play He Wanted to See.

A sad-eyed man approached George Dunleavy, box office man at one of the uptown theaters, according to the New York correspondence of the Cincinnati Times-Star. "Do you think it would be right for two ladies, both in mourning, to go to the theater?" he asked.

Mr. Dunleavy said that he thought it would be positively commendable. He went on to show that great grief needs a day off now and then. That he remembered a bit of folklore he had read somewhere. "You know," said he, "that 'the tears of the mourners burn holes in the shroud'?"

The sad eyed man said that he didn't know that. He was greatly interested. Under Mr. Dunleavy's eyes he pulled out a small memorandum book and made a note of it. "I shall ask about that," said he. "That is most interesting and important, if it is true." Then he turned to business. "Give me two aisle seats for two ladies in mourning." Mr. Dunleavy dished them out. The sad eyed man shook his head doubtfully. "It doesn't seem just proper to me," said he, "but I s'pose in this case it is all right. You see—" and he lapsed into confidences—"all our folks are Spiritualists, and my brother-in-law Bill died the other day. Now, Bill he always wanted to see this show of yours. He talked about it just a day or two before he passed out, and so his wife and my wife, they kind of figured they'd come and see the show and then tell Bill about it."

KEEP THESE THINGS IN MIND

Some of the Superstitions That Are Prevalent Among the People of Today.

It is said that if a black cat follows you it betokens good luck, but if a cat leaves the house which has been its home some misfortune is about to happen. If you put on your stocking or sock the wrong side out it is lucky, but if you change it to the right side nothing will come of it. If, when unfolding clean linen, you find a diamond shaped crease, that is a sign of death within a year. Never let a child look into a mirror till it is a twelvemonth old or ill luck will follow it through life. If your apron strings become untied your lover or husband is thinking of you. If you cannot get a fire to burn your sweetheart is in a bad temper. To stumble on going upstairs is a sure sign of a wedding; two spoons in one saucer the same. If you cut a baby's nails instead of biting them it will be light fingered. To open an umbrella in a house is a portent of misfortune; to drop one a disappointment; but if any one else picks it up the disappointment passes on to him or her. If a piece of cotton gets into a girl's hair it is a sure sign of a letter; but the cotton must not be removed by a stranger or no letter will come.

SCHUBERT'S WONDERFUL GIFT.

Many pianists have noticed that the ability to carry on a conversation and at the same time play upon an instrument is by no means unusual. It is thus proven that it is really possible to do two things at once. The piano playing is under such circumstances the automatic result of many previous repetitions. Schubert, however, was gifted with the ability of holding a running conversation and at the same time writing down entirely new and original musical compositions. Those who knew him well used to state that the musical side of his nature existed like a separate and different thing.

SUGGESTION ACCEPTED.

How the duke of Connaught came to be called Patrick and to receive his Irish title is the subject of an interesting story. When Queen Victoria, after her first visit to Ireland, was leaving Dublin in August, 1849, she drove to Kingstown, and on the way an old Irish woman called to her: "Musha, ma'am, won't you call your next son Patrick?" Queen Victoria nodded smilingly; and sure enough her son born in the following year received the name of Patrick among others and ultimately was created duke of Connaught.

SO THE POLICE THINK.

"That new automobile of yours is a fine affair."
"Don't speak of it! My fine account is something enormous."

BLOWS TO ENGLISH WRITING

Remarks of Stephen Crane and Ford Madox Hueffer About Stevenson and Rossetti.

Ford Madox Hueffer, whose "Memories and Impressions" deals with poets, painters and musicians from the time of Morris and Ruskin almost down to the present hour, likes to tell of an irreverent remark he once heard the late Stephen Crane make about Robert Louis Stevenson. "I remember," says Mr. Hueffer, "hearing him, with his wonderful eyes flashing and his extreme vigor and intonation, comment upon a sentence he was reading. The sentence was: 'With interjected finger he delayed the motion of the time-piece.' Crane exclaimed: 'By God! poor dear! That man put back the clock of English fiction fifty years.' In his book, however, Mr. Hueffer says that in his opinion 'the art of writing in English received the numbing blow of the sandbag when Rossetti at the age of eighteen wrote 'The Blessed Damsel.' From that time forward the idea has been inherent in the mind of the English writer that writing was a matter of digging for obsolete words."—Harper's Weekly.

NOT FOR HIM

The Golfer—Do you play golf?
Chauffeur—No, it is so very hard to hit anybody.

JUDGE SUSTAINED HIM.

To be called redheaded is sufficient provocation to start a fight, if the manner of the person using the name is manifestly unfriendly, according to a decision handed down by Police Judge Pollard.

This important ruling was made in the case of Bert E. Manley vs. Solomon Weisman and Jerome Weisman. Manley did not deny the patent physical fact that his hair is red. He admitted that if one of his friends slapped him on the back and affectionately said: "Hello, you red-head!" he would not be angry.

He testified it was different when the Weisman brothers called him that.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WISDOM'S COURSE.

When Amos J. Cummins was a member of the house of representatives he went on a hunting expedition with his friend, Capt. Howard F. Kennedy. One day when they were rather hungry they approached a farmhouse, the door of which was wide open, but no member of the family was at home. A big bulldog welcomed them kindly and Captain Kennedy started up the stairs leading to the portico when the dog quit wagging his tail, showed his teeth and growled ominously. Cummins stepped outside the gate and called: "Go ahead, Howard; and if he bites you, we'll run."

BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT.

A Socialist Woman's club in Indianapolis recently denounced the boy scout idea as one of the aids to ideas of militarism that are in favor with certain persons. Evidently the club has not looked very seriously into the subject, as the boy scout has other things to do besides bearing arms. He is pledged to maintain the good order of the country and to take the greatest pride in his own part of it. Moreover, in matters of personal import he is taught to keep himself clean and honest that he may be a good citizen.

STRIKING REPLY.

"Sir, I offer your daughter a fine old family name and myself to boot."
"You needn't take the trouble. I'll do the booting."

TRUTH COMES OUT.

Mrs. Uppson—They tell me you keep boarders. Is it true?
Mrs. Downing—Certainly not. My boarders keep me.

FORGOT THE CORRECT WORD
Annie Luck's Husband Accused Her of Vagrancy Because She "Busted" His Door.

The hearing room of the Front and Master streets police station was crowded with the curious the other morning when a young negro woman was hauled before Magistrate Scott. "What is your name?" asked the magistrate.

"Annie Luck," replied the prisoner.

"Annie Luck?" repeated the judge; "and what kind of luck brings you here?"

"Bad luck," said Annie. "That's my husband. Don't know what he done it for."

The magistrate turned to the husband and asked him why he had had his wife arrested.

"Why, for vagrancy," replied the husband.

"Vagrancy? said the judge. "How do you make that out? Does she not live with you?"

"Yes," said the husband, "but she done bust open my door last night."

"Why," said the judge, "that is not vagrancy; that is hydrophobia."

"That right, judge?" said Luck.

"Excuse me, I'd done forget the right word."—Philadelphia Times.

THE REASON

De Quiz—I shouldn't think you could afford to play poker if you are so unlucky at it.

De Witt—What I lose at poker my wife makes up at bridge.

BUT IT DID HIM GOOD.

Mrs. N. Beebe Hasbrouck knows a little boy whose father, after many unheeded admonitions, took the young man out into the garage—they no longer afford woodsheds in that aristocratic quarter of the town—and with an implement selected for its utility for the matter in hand impressed upon his son and heir the necessity of obedience.

It was Walter's first experience, and he was much more enraged than subdued by the fall his pride suffered in the premises. The ordeal over, he turned to his father with flashing eyes and sobbed: "All right for you, dad, but I want you distinctly to understand that you are not my mother!"

Nevertheless, a mighty change has come over him since that day.—Cleveland Leader.

EASY FOR TOKYO POLICE.

The Japanese police have an easier time than their confreres in Europe. Crime in the land of the chrysanthemum is almost limited to theft and tragedies, or serious cases of bodily harm, resulting from street brawls. It is next to impossible, the chief of the Tokyo police says, for a murder to be committed without some one hearing of it at the moment. This is due to the fact that the houses are composed of paper and bamboo, so any noise in a house occasioned by robbers or assassins would not fail to attract the attention of neighbors.

WELL BROUGHT UP.

No child of parents in moderate circumstances has been brought up more simply than Miss Marguerite, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Andrew Carnegie. She has spent her time in study, with plenty of play. Her mother dresses her very simply, and in every way she has not been allowed to indulge in foolish display.

HAIR DRESSER'S VERSION.

A woman's crowning glory is her puffs, braids, switches, pompadours, chignons, psyche knots, clusters, nets, rolls, rats and Billie Burke curls.—Woman's Home Companion.

Accum—What in your opinion is the best business to which a young man can give his attention?

HIS WIFE WAS INVALUABLE
Tailor's Spouse Entertained Women Customers During Fittings so They Would Stand Naturally.

For a long time people wondered why the tailor's wife came into the shop as soon as a customer came in to try on a skirt and sat around telling funny stories till the fitting was over. One day the tailor explained. "She does that to make women stand naturally," he said. "Unless something is going on to take their minds off themselves they strike a perfectly ridiculous attitude. Every few minutes I caution them to stand natural, but their self-consciousness won't let them. They throw their waist forward and their hips back, until a skirt fitted the way they are then standing is about two inches too short in front and two inches too long in the back when they fall back into an every-day position. But just get a woman interested in something besides herself and she will forget to pose."

"My wife interests them. She can't sew and she can't fit, and for a long time I couldn't figure out what use I could put her to in the shop, but finally I discovered that she has a mighty talent for story telling, and after I took to utilizing her one accomplishment alternations in skirts fell off 90 per cent."

"QUITE A HISTORIC SPOT"
American Woman Tourist Learns a Bit About the Ruins of the Roman Forum.

An American archaeologist with a great enthusiasm for the period of the Caesars was wandering about the Roman Forum one morning when a woman poked her head over the wall. "Hey!" she said in the familiar accent of western New York. "What place is this?"

"This is the ruins of the Forum," responded the archaeologist.

"And what might that be?" she asked.

Amused, but glad of a chance to induct a fresh mind into his hobby, the archaeologist explained. He waxed eloquent; he began at its foundation; he pictured the pageant after pageant of history, the successive armies and races that made that spot memorable. Finally he ran down for want of breath.

"My!" she said. "Quite a historic spot, isn't it?"—Success Magazine.

MENNONITES AND WATERMELON

The Mennonites have a decided preference for watermelons over every other "fruit." They call the melons "arboosens," though we would not be willing to certify that this is the correct spelling. The last detachment happened to arrive at Atchison one Saturday—market day—and among the first objects they saw were the big Kansas watermelons. They "went for them then and there," and felt that they had reached the "happy land of Canaan." Unless some other state can raise larger watermelons than Kansas—which some other state can't—the future Mennonite immigration will be directed hitherward.—Noble L. Prentiss, Kansas Miscellanies.

JOKED WITH JOKER.

A victim of street car pickpockets resolved to get even, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says. He put in his pocketbook nothing but a slip of paper on which was written: "This is where you lose, fellow!" Then he climbed into a pay-as-you-enter car and waited. Twenty minutes passed and nothing happened. Twenty more minutes flitted by. The sleuth left the car then, having assured himself that his purse was safe. He repaired to a safe place and looked things over. There was a slip of paper, just as he had wrapped it up. But when he opened it the thing had a new sentence on it. It said: "Ain't you the kiddier!"

MUCH TO LIVE FOR.

"She has spurned my love. I have nothing left to live for."

"Oh, yes, you have. You have an automobile."—Exchange.

DON'T CARE FOR IT.

He—Perfectly sure. I don't care for money at all. I spend all I get.

SERVED HIS TIME AT SEA

Youthful Experiences of Sir Walter Runciman, Author of a Recent Book on Napoleon.

Sir Walter Runciman, author of the book on Napoleon, "The Tragedy of St. Helena," is a Scotsman. The sea early fascinated him, and at the age of twelve he ran away from home, trapped to a northeast coast port, and engaged himself as a cabin boy. His duties made his position anything but a sinecure and the treatment he received in it completed his disillusionment with reference to this particular vessel. The tyranny finally became unbearable and he managed to decamp at an Irish port. His love for the sea, however, remained, and before long he was serving on an American vessel, where he speedily became well liked.

Unfortunately, his former captain, plucked at his successful escape, had him captured and brought back. Heavy punishment followed, with the not unnatural consequence of a second flight, which resulted in his getting to a boat upon which he served the full term of his apprenticeship.

At the right moment he left the sea for the business of ship moving and management. He has found time to write three books besides his newest, and to take part in politics.

CHICKEN ROAST IN SCHOOL

Iowa Rural Teacher Makes Schoolhouse Center of Social Life of the District.

It is as true as it is strange that in Iowa many rural schools are so attractive that city boys are sent out of the city to attend the rural school. I know one country school in which there are six children from city schools. A "chicken roast" is the latest school attraction that I have known. A teacher is making the schoolhouse the center of social life for the district. She does not like the idea of having a dance in the school, and she will not have kissing frascas, so she plans various social functions with stunts and games that have abundance of life, that are new, that are harmless. She does quite a little along the line of refreshments, and every one takes a part in the preparation as well as in disposing of the feast. The greatest success she has ever had was a chicken roast. It was in the autumn, and was in the school yard. It was a close approach to a barbecue. Every man, woman and child in the district was there. Nothing else has ever aroused such an interest in the Kille district.—Journal of Education.

Some Historical Stamps.

Many intensely interesting historical events have been recorded in postage stamps so that a large collection of stamps often shows in a most striking manner how history was made. There is a period of French history which is particularly interesting in this way because the stamps issued at that time so plainly show the changes in the ruling power from monarchy to republic and back again.

On one French stamp you see Mons. Barre's head of Liberty and the words "Republic France." On the following issue of stamps—those issued in 1849—Louis Napoleon's head appears instead of the Liberty, the words on the stamp being still "Republic France." After that there was a new stamp, on which Louis Napoleon's head still appeared, but the words "Republic France" were replaced by "Empire France."

Parrot Frightened Burglar.

The cries of Oliver Twist, a South American parrot, which was awakened the other morning by a thief prowling in the home of his mistress, Mrs. M. Osburn of San Francisco, while she was absent, frightened away the burglar after he had gathered up articles worth $23. The watchfulness of Oliver, however, probably will result in his martyrdom, as the thief, angered at the interruption of his work, seized the bird by the neck and twisting it cruelly, flung him through a mirror in the dining-room. When Mrs. Osburn returned, Oliver was found on the floor in an exhausted condition, while an open rear door and the condition of the room gave evidence of the burglar's hasty flight.

Feeding London's Zoo.

It cost $23,490 to feed the animals in the London Zoo last year, hay, clover, and fruit being the three biggest items. Among the items were: Hay, 161 loads; straw, 208 loads; tares, 1,188 bundles; maize, 360 bushels; rice, 1½ tons; canary seed, 150 bushels; shrimps, 1,835 pints; and fish, 28 tons. There were 218 horses, costing $1,505, and 152 goats; monkey nuts, 44½ hundredweights; 97,884 bananas, 4,219 pounds grapes, 13,013 oranges, 923½ pecks and 31½ cases apples, 7½ tons mangels, 21,348 pounds potatoes, 6,806 quarters bread, 46,986 fowls' heads, 494 pounds sugar, 5,858 mice, and 3,575 sparrows.

A Boston Casquet.

Mrs. Kowler—But how in the world did you manage to hire this flat when the landlord is so set against families with children?

Mrs. Smart—I told him my children were all underground.

Mrs. K.—But that was er—

Mrs. S.—Oh, it was quite true. You see, at the time I told him, I'd sent the children riding through the subway.—Boston Evening Transcript.

PROUD TO TELL ABOUT CURES

Folks Who Have Been Sick Like to See Their Cases in Print, Says Doctor.

"Any doctor who cures a patient of an illness serious enough to be written up in a medical magazine has a right to feel proud of himself, but he isn't nearly so proud as the person he cured," said a doctor. "It actually looks as if seeing the history of their cases in print compensates some folks for being sick."

"Nearly everybody nowadays who has a pretty hard pull to get back to health asks me if I am not going to write up the case for publication. The mere suggestion that it is not interesting enough for copy nearly causes a relapse. As an incentive to recovery I have tried my literary skill on several cases that contained not one sensational feature from a scientific standpoint."

"The patients were pretty sick, of course, and thought they were going to die. Over and over I assured them that they had a straight attack of fever or stomach trouble without complications, but they were convinced I was only putting it mildly to keep from scaring them to death. When, just to please them, I finally wrote a history of the illness they were so proud that they had the story printed in pamphlet form at their own expense."

IDEA OF A ROADMAKER

Bone—Stone's girl weighs 200.
Cone—When she sits on his knee I should think it would be a case of "crushed Stone."

NEW YORK STILL A FUR STATE.

That the reputation of the state of New York as a fur bearing district has not been entirely lost and that that reputation so far as Wayne county is concerned is still being kept up is shown by the fact that approximately $30,000 worth of furs were shipped to New York by one dealer during the fall of 1910 and so far during 1911.

Since the season opened last fall he has bought furs as follows: Fifty thousand muskrats, 10,000 skunks, 500 raccoons, 600 minks, 300 red foxes, 500 ermine, which make a total of over 60,000 skins. Undoubtedly this does not represent the entire catch, for there are probably other dealers.—Newark (N. Y.) Union-Gazette.

PRIMITIVE TELEGRAPHY.

An amusing story of reckoning by notches comes from Preston, England. The other day a North Country cattle dealer entered a telegraph office and handed a telegram which consisted, besides the address, of eight strokes. The clerk inquired if these were meant for figures. "Call them figures or whatever you like," said the sender, "so that they come out the same at the other end, and I'll tell you why. That telegram is going to my housekeeper. She can't read or write a word, but when the telegram reaches her she'll count the strokes, and understand that I shall be home at eight o'clock tonight."

PLEASANT COMPARISON.

"Bob" Davis, who is editor of Munsey's Magazine and the author of several plays, is the possessor of a sense of humor and a power of expression that is frequently picturesque. Speaking of a man who had achieved some distinction as a killjoy said: "That fellow is a great athlete. He can throw a wet blanket 200 yards in any gathering."

FOR THE FLY.

Flies may be effectually disposed of without the use of poison. Take half a teaspoonful of black pepper and a whole teaspoonful of cream, mix well and put on a plate; then place where the flies are most troublesome and they will soon disappear.—Home department, National Magazine.

The Moguls left June 15 and went to McLeansboro, where they won only one of the 3 games. They went next to Harrisburg and took the series. Went to Cairo the 21st and lost the first, won the second and played the third game yesterday. They are now at Fulton.

The first streak of bad luck hit the Moguls at Cairo Thursday, when Catcher Huhn's hand was so badly split that he had to be taken out of the game. Jones was taken out of the left field and put behind the bat and the game was played out and won, in spite of the accident.

Fame For Mike.

The enterprise Press Association ran a cut of Mike Lyons, last week, accompanied by a write up, published in "pink sheets" sporting extras all over the country. This is what they say about him: "Mike Lyons, right fielder of the Hopkinsville team of the K. I. T. league, known as the Moguls, has created a new batting record—seven hits in one game. To accomplish this feat Lyons broke the long standing record held jointly by Ed Delehanty and Gene Beaumont, who are credited with six hits in one game. Lyons made his record against the Vincennes team, accumulating fourteen bases, two three baggers, three doubles and two singles. He faced four pitchers. Last season Wagner and Lajoie made eight hits in succession, but these were not in a single game. Lyons, who is a civil engineer, is but twenty-two and lives at Jasonville, Ill. This is his second year in the game and his first as an outfielder. Last year he batted close to 300, but this year he has been hitting at a 444 clip. He is one of the best base runners in the Kitty league and has a fielding average of 1,000."

KITTY MEWS

The Moguls are playing under Umpire Beck at Cairo, who will probably come home with them.

Hopkinsville will have to weed out a few pitchers soon. We have Yon, Johnson, McArthur, Binkley, Bailey and a new man.

The Harrisburg-Henderson game Thursday was 13 innings and 6 pitchers took part before Harrisburg finally won 7 to 6.

From the meeting of the K. I. T. League directors, it appears that the league is having a very successful season, this year. Of course, we think so.

No other team in the seven leagues reported in the Courier-Journal ranks as high as Hopkinsville with 750 per cent. Dayton with 722 is

There is one satisfaction, Hopkinsville likes Nairn and Nairn likes Hopkinsville. Where the manager and fans are at points, there is rarely ever a mediocre team.

It was only a few days ago that Paducah was claiming Pierre to be a star of the same magnitude as Huhn. Where is he now? He must be one of those extinct dark stars.

Derosé, the former McLeansboro catcher, is now playing with Chief Harry Lloyd's Indians. Derosé is a good backstop and should make a hit with the fans.—Paducah News Democrat.

As yet, no team, fans, nor papers have claimed the star third sacker of the league. No use, everybody knows that the local keeper of the third station is superior to any in the league.

The outfield, also, has any out field of the league beaten, for fielding, batting, and base running. Lyons, Kessling, and Jones are a trio to beat. It is a cinch that we will not have them next year, as they are due a position higher up.

The 6 games of the McLeansboro team now being played at Henderson will determine the final transfer of the franchise. The team has been drawing well, but has lost the two first games. If not sold to Henderson, it will be offered to Morganfield.

From present indications, Hopkinsville will have to have an altogether new team, next year. If the players continue to play as they are now playing, the big leagues will have them all before the present season is out. You will hear from a majority of the local ball tossers, in years to come, on the major league circuits.

The Nashville Banner says in speaking of the remarkable showing made by Clarksville: "A majority of the Clarksville men are well known in this city and the local fans are taking nearly as much interest in their race as that of the home team."—Paducah News Democrat.

Yes, Clarksville has made a "remarkable showing" of late—all because of that "Harrisburg drinking water." From reports, we would not be surprised, but why are the Nashville fans taking more interest in the Clarksville team than are the home fans?

THEATRE

For Geo. A. Bleich to be Built
By W. T. Cooper.

W. T. Cooper has under consideration the erection of a new brick building on his Phoenix Hotel lot, fronting 41 feet on Ninth street, opposite the site of the Elks' Home. It is to be leased for a term of years to Geo. A. Bleich, for a motion picture theatre. The plans contemplate the finest thing of the kind in the State, outside of Louisville. It will have a seating capacity of 400 below and 200 in the balcony, the whole building designed especially for the business, with every known convenience. It will occupy the vacant space on the east end of the lot.

OUT FOR GOOD TIME

Two Girls' Trip to the Country
In Vacation.

Yes, school was out on Friday and the very next Tuesday we started for a good time and we surely found it. We left Hoptown at 5:40 a. m. on the I. C. R. R., passed along by all the small stations making a note of each one as we passed it, and growing more and more interested in farm life as we saw the nice looking large farms as we journeyed along, and so we finally struck Union Co., where we passed through several nice looking towns, finally arriving at Morganfield, the County-seat. There we were met by friends who soon hurried us away to other friends and loved ones, where we ended our trip of some eighty odd miles and both of us being hungry we did justice to the first dinner we had the pleasure of sitting down to, and that HAM! O, just think of it! It was simply fine and what is more it was plentiful. We had ham three times a day for our two weeks' visit, but don't think ham was the only meat cooked on the farm; we had steak, roast, fried chicken, baked hen and other meats. Well it would be hard to remember all the good things we had to eat on that visit. And we both being young, I think I can say of our host, Mr. J. W. H., that he was one of the very finest types of a gentleman we had ever met. His resources for our enjoyment were endless, such as music, horse back riding, fishing and other pleasures. One of which was a trip to the School of St. Vincent at the closing one among the finest Schools I have ever visited; we also made a trip into the city of Morganfield where the many new buildings going up after the fire are proof of a wide awake town. BARKSDALE HAMLETT

EDUCATOR CANDIDATE FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Democratic Party Will Demand as Its Candidate a Man Who is a Practical and Experienced Educator.

The first law of a democracy is the equalization of opportunity, which means the equitable distribution of intelligence through an adequate provision of educational equipment.

There can appear no virtue in the cry of a "Square Deal" so long as there exists a monopoly of intelligence, in a state where society is composed of individuals equally endowed by nature, yet to the great masses of whom all the light of human achievement and the social heritage of truth are denied.

Through a permanently organized campaign for educational improvement, readjusted ideals must be converted into practical realities. Thus will the latent energies of society be set free and opportunity will indeed knock at the door of every home in Kentucky.

His Platform.

I stand specifically for: A school free and accessible to every child in every rural district in Kentucky.

BARKSDALE HAMLETT.

The improvement, sanitation and equipment of our rural schools, in accordance with the best modern standards.

Minimum seven months terms in every district.

A rational and effective compulsory attendance.

Practical course of study; agricultural and the domestic and mechanical arts and sciences.

Good roads and consolidation where practical.

Teachers of scholarship, character and personality.

County high schools, accessibly located in every county.

Improved facilities for the county superintendent's office.

Liberal enlargement and maintenance of our normal schools and state university as component parts of our public school system.

Readjustment of our system of finance to effect larger results on a more economic basis.

Personal leadership in the field on the part of the state superintendent.

Success Comes Only at End of Effort.

The subject of this sketch is a man of strong individuality, keen mentality, and a broad humanitarian spirit, whose interest in his fellow men is sincere, while his work is always actuated by a desire to advance the cause of education. * * * He worked in the tobacco patch for the means with which to educate himself, and succeeded to the extent that he was graduated from the Hamden-Sidney College of Virginia, with the Orator's medal of his class, at the age of nineteen. * * * (From E. Polk Johnson's History of Kentucky, in publication.)

Endorsed by Educators and Press.

An ex-president of the Kentucky Educational association, one of its five original incorporators, and up to the present time a member of its board of directors. An ex-president of the Fourth Congressional District association; an ex-state board examiner. Began his career as teacher in Lynnland Academy, Hardin county, taught in the rural district and normal schools, Larue county; principal of the graded schools of Corydon, and principal of the Henderson high school, from which he came to the superintendency of the Hopkinsville public schools.

The Man For the Place.

Editor T. C. Underwood, president of the Kentucky Press association, in the Hopkinsville News Era: "The Democratic party could look long and hard without finding a worthier or more competent candidate for the important office of state superintendent of schools. Mr. Hamlett is a man who has always 'made good,' and his career has been a lesson of energy, perseverance and honor. The state has no more enthusiastic and effective an advocate of education, nor the Democratic party a more loyal supporter."

A Builder of Schools.

In another issue he has this to say: "When Prof. Hamlett came to Hopkinsville, from Henderson, six years ago, as superintendent of the public schools, there were but two buildings. With the completion this year of the high school buildings, there will be six, at a cost of $200,000, and the faculty of twenty-three teachers has been increased to forty-six. * * * He is an orator of ability and in demand as an after-dinner speaker. * * * He is a popular member of the Elks, W. O. W. and other fraternal organizations. Prof. Hamlett is also superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, one of the largest in the state."

A Leader in Progressive Movement.

Prof. Hamlett, though only thirty-two years of age, has had thirteen years of successful experience as a teacher, rising by rapid promotions from teacher of a small county school at $30 a month to the splendid position he now holds at the head of the Hopkinsville school system, with more than 2,500 pupils and 40 teachers under his superintendency. Under his direction the schools have been improved from year to year, until they are more than ever the pride of one of the most progressive cities of the state.

A clean, young and progressive teacher, who has all the elements of success in his make-up he is a man in every way capable of making an officer of whom the whole state would justly be proud.

A leader in every progressive movement, Barksdale Hamlett will help to redeem Kentucky in 1911, and will be the next superintendent of Public Instruction.—(Mayor Chas. M. Meacham in the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.)

Master of School Problems.

From study and experience, he is master of the school problems of Kentucky and is particularly interested in the improvement of the common schools. The News knows no Democrat so thoroughly equipped at all points to make an ideal state superintendent, to advance the school interests proper of Kentucky, as Prof. Hamlett, and we would like to see him given the nomination without opposition.—(Elizabethtown News.)

Friend to the Rural Schools.

Prof. Hamlett is a strong, intelligent friend to the cause of education and believes in a square deal from the smallest district to the most intelligent city in the country. He is certainly a friend to the common schools, believes in seven months' terms, good roads and improved facilities for our schools in every respect.—(Mayfield Messenger.)

Strong Acquisition to the State Ticket.

Prof. Hamlett is in the foremost rank of Kentucky's educators and is in every way thoroughly qualified for the honor he seeks. We predict a successful candidacy for him and believe he will be a strong acquisition to the next state ticket.—(Madisonville Journal.)

Solid Backing of Home People.

Hamlett stands at the very top among the educators of our state. His friends predict with all candor that he will go into the fight with the solid backing not only of his home county, but the entire second congressional district.—(Daily Leader, Fulton.)

An Ideal Superintendent.

Barksdale Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, is the most advanced, intelligent and capable man in the state for superintendent of public instruction. He knows the needs of the state in all educational matters and would make an ideal state superintendent of public instruction.—(H. A. Summers in The Elizabethtown News.)

Prof. Hamlett possesses all the qualifications to make the state an ideal superintendent.—(Cadiz Record.)

The Man of the Hour.

As he is seen by the Ballard County Yeoman:

"The most casual reader can see in him the man of the hour, the man in whom all people of all parties can graciously unite and work for. His whole life, his every en-gy, his wonderful brain power are wrapped in this, the greatest work to be done in Kentucky. Though yet young, he is undoubtedly the best equipped man for this office the state has ever produced."

Determination and Success in His Face

A young man who seems to have an ambition to accomplish something worth while in the educational field, and judging from that determined expression in his frank open countenance, he is going to succeed in the undertaking.—(Daily Bulletin, Maysville.)

A Worthy and Competent Leader.

His work at Hopkinsville is a monument to his ability as a school worker and organizer. He is abundantly qualified for the high office which he seeks, and his broad platform embraces the very best in educational endeavor. He is a worthy man in every respect, having worked himself up from a poor boy. Already he has pledged to him almost the solid vote of the teachers of the state, and all interested in the improvement and advancement of Kentucky's educational facilities, see in him a worthy and competent leader for the accomplishment of those things.—(Hartford Herald.)

Successful in Great Undertakings.

He is eminently qualified for the position which he seeks, and his record as an educator has been one of uninterrupted success. It is due to him that the handsome new Christian county and Hopkinsville high school is now a permanent reality, having been erected under the Sullivan law, at a cost of $100,000.—(The News-Democrat, Paducah.)

We believe as state superintendent of public instruction, he would be the right man in the right place.—(Calloway County Gazette.)

Mr. Hamlett believes in the equalization of opportunities, and his greatest wish in his work is to make opportunity knock at the home of every school child in Kentucky. We like Mr. Hamlett, and unlike most politicians he improves on acquaintance. In fact, he is not a politician, he is a school man who is well equipped for the office.—(The Breckinridge News, Cloverport.)

Making a Fine Race.

He is a man of infinite ability and capacity and stands upon a platform that neither trims nor tergiversates; that begs no question nor evades a single issue. Mr. Hamlett, a man of individuality and ability, an educator and orator, is conceded to be the logical man for the place and is endorsed by leading educators and the press. Prof. Hamlett is out for the Democratic nomination and is making a vigorous canvass; he stands for progression and has the unequalled endorsement of his home people. He has the credentials of a sturdy Democrat and bears the highest qualifications of an ideal superintendent.

Eminently qualified for the position sought, we believe him to be "the man" for superintendent of our state schools.

Prof. Hamlett is a strong friend to the cause of advanced education and believes in a square deal from the smallest district to the most progressive city in the country. He is a friend to the common schools of the state, is a clean, sound and energetic teacher who has all the elements of success in his make-up and is a man in every way capable of making an officer of whom the whole state would be justly proud.

It is hoped that Mr. Hamlett will have no opposition before the Democratic primary, for he is so thoroughly Democratic and clean in his views, so well equipped from all angles, that antagonism would be almost unjustifiable.

Mr. Hamlett has given a good account of himself, and his work at Hopkinsville is a monument to his ability as a school worker and organizer. He has made more than good there and can make good at the head of Kentucky's school affairs. If you want to know what Barksdale Hamlett stands for, just follow carefully the creed of the man as promulgated by himself.—(Henderson Journal.)

In the Lead.

Barksdale Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, continues in the lead for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Schools. His superior qualifications for the office give him a decided advantage over both his opponents, who are not active school men. The people of the State are awakening to the fact that to elect a lawyer to the agricultural department or a farmer to the superintendency of schools would be sheer folly, and they are lining up in this section at least for Mr. Hamlett mainly because he is an eminent, active educator and has made a success in his chosen line of work.—(The Somerset Journal.)

NEARLY AS GOOD AS TITLE

Harry Was Colonel on Governor's Staff and Could Wear Most Gorgeous Uniform.

"Have you ever thought that you would care to marry a man with a title?" he asked. "Really," she replied, pretending to make light of it. "I have never thought much about it."

"Still, I suppose if a man with a title were to come along you would not treat him coldly merely because he happened to have a handle to his name?"

"Well, I have no doubt that there are some very good men who possess titles."

"Let us suppose, for instance, that I had a title."

"I can't imagine such a thing."

"But if such a thing could be?"

"I hardly know what you mean."

"Why, if I had a title and came to you with a proposal of marriage, would you be disposed to listen to me kindly?"

"But you haven't any title, and you are never likely to have one."

"You are mistaken; I have a title."

"Silly! Why do you say that?"

"It's a fact. I've been appointed a colonel on the governor's staff."

"Why, you can't be serious?"

"I am serious. I'll show you my commission if you wish to see it."

"Do you get a salary for being a colonel on the governor's staff?"

"No, but I have the right to wear a splendid uniform at public functions."

"Oh, Harry! Did you really mean it when you proposed a moment ago?"

THIS THIEF WAS THOUGHTFUL

Kept the Money, But Mailed Pocket Book With Its Papers Back to His Victim.

The West side man took a small, flat wallet out of his hip pocket and showed it to a friend. "Uncle Sam is a good postmaster," he said. "I got that in the mail yesterday, just as it is, without even a rubber band about it to hold the contents in."

"But—why should you get your own wallet in the mail—I don't understand."

The West side man smiled—rather reluctantly. "The fact is," he confessed, "I had my pocket picked a few nights ago—first time in my life. I was going home on the street car and somebody relieved me of this purse. Fortunately it contained only a five-dollar bill in money, but there were two promissory notes in it and some other papers which were valuable to me, only. The light-fingered citizen kept the money, but was sufficiently considerate to toss the purse, containing all the papers, into the receiving box of one of the branch post offices. Some of my visiting cards were in the wallet and he chose the post office nearest my home. I call that thoughtful, don't you? The post office employees evidently gave the purse the most respectful attention, for it was delivered to me intact, but it was not wrapped or tied. I suppose the intention was to have me see just the condition in which the post office had received it."—New York Sun.

The Ancient Oracles.

Herodotus mentions between seventy and eighty oracles of one sort and another. There is no reason for thinking that the people who patronized the oracles had other than the liveliest faith in them, else why should they have gone to them, sometimes at great trouble and expense to themselves? The two great oracles were those at Delphi and Dodona, though there were several others that stood well with the people. The predictions were, of course, nothing but predictions, since it is now generally understood that the promoters of those famous institutions were only ordinary human beings like those who patronized them. The deliverance of the oracles belong to one of two classes, first, those founded on secret information, and, secondly, those in which the oracle had absolutely no ideas on the subject and took refuge in sheer vagueness. It was the faith of the people rather than the infallibility of the oracles that kept them up so long.

Awful Inquisition.

A little colored girl, deeply insulted by her playmate, who had pushed her "off'n de stoop," took her case before the justice of the peace. He inquired into the circumstances and said, turning to the injured one:

"The plaintiff is allowed to ask the defendant a question, in regard to the assault."

"What's dat yo' say, sah?"

"I say that you may ask the defendant a question."

"Wh-wha'll Ah ask her, sah?"

"Any question you like."

The child studied the floor a moment. Then, with the politest of smiles, she inquired, "Sally, am yo' mamma well?"—Everybody's Magazine.

A Wretched Pun.

The professor had paid a long-delayed visit to a neighboring tontorial parlor.

Later in the day he encountered his implacable enemy, the doctor.

"Well," remarked the doctor, critically inspecting him, "you look a little more like a civilized human being."

"On the contrary," frowned the professor, running his fingers through his cropped beard, "I look like a relic of barbarism."—Chicago Tribune.

PEOPLE WHO NEVER EXISTED

Immense Circle of Acquaintances Created for Us by Minds of Great Writers.

An enthusiast's dictionary of the novels of Sir Walter Scott informs us that there are no less than 2,836 characters in his stories. These figures serve to make us realize how surprisingly large is the circle of purely imaginative acquaintances whose names and characteristics and stories the lover of literature and art stores in his memory in the course of a lifetime, and how cosmopolitan the company is.

In infancy we are introduced to the early racial circle of acquaintances whom we inherit from our earliest ancestors—fairies good and wicked, heroes of many climes, imaginary people whom we never forget and do not allow to be forgotten by those who come after us. Then follow the giants of childhood—Robinson Crusoe, Christian the Pilgrim, Don Quixote, Gulliver. Passing acquaintances, once liked, but readily forgotten, we pass over. And now the circle widens suddenly. The companions of a lifetime come trooping out of the past and present—Homer's heroes and heroines, King Arthur's court, Canterbury pilgrims, Shakespeare's immortal company, the men and women Thackeray drew, a few of George Eliot's characters, Dickens' unforgettable types, and from abroad, Dumas' swashbucklers, Balzac's crowded human comedy, some of Daudet's personages, Tolstoy's Anna, Klipping's Soldiers Three and junglefolk, Hester Prynne, Meredith's great creations, Anatole France's M. Bergeret and his contemporaries.—New York Tribune.

WOMAN'S COURAGE IS HIGH

English Sociologist Advances the Theory That This Is Due to the Maternal Instinct.

In high police circles woman's trait of courage that exceeds their physical strength is regarded as no new manifestation in the proverbially weaker sex.

"Ever since I became associated with police work," said one experienced officer, "I have noticed that women seemed always ready to help any one in apparent difficulties. Perhaps because they are weak themselves they are disposed readily to help the weaker side without thought of consequences to themselves."

A highly interesting explanation of this undoubted bravery in women was vouchsafed by J. W. Slaughter, the eminent English sociologist, who assigned female courage largely to the maternal instinct. "Nothing on earth can be more ferocious, more dangerous and more courageous than the female animal defending her young. The maternal instinct in woman is in itself an inspiration to courage. You will never see a woman on the edge of a crowd taking the side of the upper dog. Women, moreover, act more directly than men. They are more impulsive and less calculating."

"We are accustomed to think of women as afraid of this or that, but it is because they have not really had experience. Courage is, after all, a matter of experience. One is not afraid of things one is used to or knows how to deal with."

Tippling in the Dark.

He had quite lost his English accent, his English manner, and his English appearance—that waiter I met the other day, but one little trick that he retained betrayed him for a countryman of mine," said the Englishman. "When I offered him a tip he turned his back upon me and stretched his hand out behind him to receive it."

"Nobody but an English waiter of the old school would have received a tip with so much humility. It was never the custom to cultivate that modest demeanor anywhere except in the tight little island. The old servants there thought it a sign of dishonor to glue the eye on a fee before it had left the customer's hand, but the new generation of English waiters is as greedy as their brethren in other lands and makes a forward thrust for whatever is offered."

Refined Torture.

The oft-recurring question of the meanest man had found its way into the conversation.

"The meanest man on earth," alleged Jones, "lives in Philadelphia—City of Brotherly Love. He resides in an apartment hotel. His bedroom window gives upon a court which is possessed of terrific acoustic properties. This meanest man snores. With the coming of spring sleepers in the court opened wider their windows. So did the mean man—the accomplished snorer. His fellow-tenants suffered. They begged him to desist. Now what do you think he did?"

Nobody guessed.

"He rigged up a megaphone, caused it to project into the open court, and snored into it all night."

Love of Nature.

It is a mistake to conclude that men are insensible to those beauties which they are not continually talking about and analyzing—that the love of Nature is a new feeling because the taste for the picturesque is a modern taste. When the mountaineer descends into the plain, he soon begins to pine for his native hills, and many have been known to fall sick—nay, even to die, of that love. Yet had he never left the hills, you would never have heard him prate about them.—Julius Charles Hare.

"STICK" WAS BIG BLACKSNAKE

Writer Tells of His Narrow Escape From the Deadly Reptile of the Australian Bush.

The blacksnake is the danger of the Australian bush, and a deadly reptile he is, whose bite will kill any one in about eight minutes. Yet, notwithstanding all the warnings I was given, I never could remember to be on the lookout for snakes nor to avoid doing such foolish things as sitting on old dead tree trunks, which are their favorite hiding places.

I had just fired two barrels at a rabbit when just in front of me I saw a long, gnarled, black stick, a charred branch of a dead gum, as I thought. Another moment I should carelessly have stepped either across or on it, when one of the ladies of the party, who was walking with us, seized my arm and pulled me backward, calling out in a voice of terror: "Take care, it's a snake!" Roused by her voice, my "stick" woke up and a long blacksnake wriggled away in front of us. The snake had got to its hole, but my rescuer gallantly belabored it with her stick, while my other companions rushed up and blew the tail off at a shot. Then one of the men dashed away for a spade, with which it was dug out, when we loosed both our spades to make sure of killing it. It was a big snake and measured well over three feet. We were far more pleased with our one blacksnake than if we had shot a hundred rabbits.—Westminster Gazette.

MEASURES 100,000TH OF INCH

New Apparatus of English Invention That Will Determine Extremely Minute Distances.

The extreme delicacy of scientific measurement is shown by an apparatus of English invention for comparing official standards of length. Its action depends upon the interference of light waves, causing shadow bands, the width of which is half the wave length of the light employed.

The red radiation from hydrogen on cadmium is used, and its wave length is, say, the 50-1,000th of an inch. The machine carries two microscopes, one of which is attached to one of the glass plates reflecting the light and producing the interference bands.

First, the recognized standard rod—say the Imperial standard yard—is placed under the two microscopes, and one of its terminal marks is brought under the spider lines of each. Then the rod to be tested is substituted, and one of its terminals is accurately adjusted.

If it varies from the length of the standard, the other microscope, carrying the reflector, must be shifted until coincidence is obtained. The number of bands that move past during the shifting, multiplied by the half wave-lengths of the light, gives the difference in length of the rods.—Scientific American.

Not Beautiful to Modern Eyes.

The famous beauties of the world are wise when they leave no portraits of themselves, says a writer. Take Marguerite of Valois. She was an immoral, dishonorable, criminal, scheming, unscrupulous, villainous, but she was dowered with such charm that there was not a jaller or an enemy she could not charm if she tried. No, nor a woman—even the wives of her lovers. Men came from every country, taking year-long journeys, only to see her, and went away after a little glimpse saying they had "seen loveliness itself." Then one sees her portraits. Too much forehead, not enough eyebrow; a straight nose and expressive mouth (in one picture a lovely mouth)—and that is all. Mary Queen of Scots was lovely—three kingdoms battled because of her beauty—and yet her pictures leave one cold. Foucher said her portrait showed every trait of the lowest criminal type. That was before he knew whose picture he criticised.

Ancient "Remedies."

Some of the sufferers from coughs and colds may feel disposed to try one of the remedies recommended by Pliny. These include wolf's liver dissolved in hot wine, honey mixed with the gall of a bear and powders made from rabbit skins and bullock's horns burned and pounded together. Should one's ills resist these simple remedies for a cough he might try wrapping any of his fingers in the skin of a freshly killed dog. Tree frogs, too, are excellent for all forms of catarrh. Place one in the mouth for a minute, and when he makes his escape the sufferer is cured. No harm is done to the frog. For a cold in the head Pliny prescribes a simple yet infallible remedy—three kisses on the mouth of a mule.

Napoleon in the Sepulcher.

When, after the Battle of Jena, Napoleon invaded Prussia, he visited Potsdam, which contains the mortal remains of the Prussian kings. The sepulcher of Frederick the Great occupied a prominent site in the mausoleum. When entering the latter, Napoleon uncovered his head, and went directly up to the sarcophagus of the noted warrior.

For a moment the conqueror stood still, seemingly absorbed in deep thought. Then with the forefinger of his right hand he wrote the word "Napoleon" in the dust of the huge stone casket, and turning to his marshals said:

"Gentlemen, if he were living I would not be here."—Youth's Companion.

CARRETA HAS LONG HISTORY Ancient Indian Vehicle That Has Been In Use Over Two Hundred Years.

The ancient carreta, now in the exhibit room of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, has had an eventful history, as wagons go. It was the property of Alfonso, a Tesuque Indian, eighty-five years old. Alfonso said it had belonged to his great-grandfather and that it had been exhibited at a local fiesta years before as the oldest carreta in the neighborhood. From these facts, well substantiated, and the great age to which Indians live, as a rule, this ancient carreta is estimated to be much over 200 years old. It was purchased by Captain Newton Chittenden, a noted Indian explorer, antiquarian and ethnologist, now living in Pomona, Cal.

On November 23, 1896, this old time cart left Redlands, Cal., on its own wheels and reached Los Angeles December 15, a distance of over sixty miles. Captain Chittenden accompanied it, camping on the way and walked most of the distance, watching with anxious eyes to see that it did not fall to pieces, like the "deacon's wonderful one-horse shay," from its great age. But it survived the journey in good shape and was hauled to the Chamber of Commerce exhibit room, where, sheltered from wind and weather, it may remain a possible 200 years more.

The wheels are made of cross sections of a sycamore tree, 38 inches in diameter and about six inches thick at the outer rim. The hubs are of one piece with the body of the wheels and are roughly extended out to a length of 18 inches. Wooden pins through the axle secure the clumsy wheels. The body is made of cottonwood, excepting the tongue, which is a twisted and gnarled stick of mesquite four feet long. It was driven by oxen hitched to the horns with thongs of rawhide. Its counterpart may be seen in the country districts of Mexico today, drawn in a similar manner, as this was when new, 200 years and more ago.

WHEN THE BARD WAS YOUNG
How Shakespeare Delighted Sir Marmaduke With His Recitation of Some Exquisite Ballads.

"Let us hear of it then, and quickly," cried Sir Marmaduke, putting his hand kindly upon the boy's head. William Shakespeare saw all eyes were fixed upon him; yet there was a friendliness in every aspect which gave him courage to fear. Standing where he was, with a graceful carriage of himself, and a wonderful pleasant delivery, he presently went on with the verses.

"Bravely spoken!" exclaimed the old knight, who had observed and listened to the boy manifestly with a more than ordinary satisfaction in his benevolent pleasant aspect. "Never heard I aught more properly delivered."

"Nor I, by'r lady," said Master Peregrine, in a similar excellent humor. "Where didst learn this exquisite ballad, young sir?"

"An' it please you, my mother taught it me," replied William Shakespeare.

"Hast any more such in thy memory?" inquired the other.

"A score at least, an' it please you," answered the boy; "most moving ones of the doings of valiant knights; and sundry of a delicate sort, concerning of the love of fair ladies; besides which I have store of fairy roundelays, that I learned of nurse, Cleely, which smack most sweetly of the dainty blossoms—Williams, 'The Youth of Shakespeare.'"

Speak Only on Invitation.
In the heavily cushioned seats of a train speeding through Massachusetts eat Josiah White and his wife. It was the first time either had been outside the limits of St. Lawrence county, to say nothing of riding in such luxury, with new and ever-changing scenery around them. As the train neared Boston Josiah nudged his wife.

"Abbie," said he, close to her ear, "don't say a word to me and I won't to you while we're goin' through this city. It ain't polite, unless ye're invited."

"What!"

"Yes. This is Boston, th' place we've heard so much on as bein' th' city o' th' cultured, and I just overheard one o' them distinguished-lookin' gentlemen in the seat ahead tell th' other he wuz goin' to stop off here because he has been invited to speak here tonight."—Judge.

All in the Use.
Even the best things, ill used, become evils, and, contrarily, the worst things used well prove good. A good tongue used to deceit; a good wit used to defend error; a strong arm to murder; authority to oppress; a good profession to dissimble; are all evil. Even God's own word is the sword of the spirit, which, if it kills not our vices, kills our souls. Contrariwise (as poisons are used to wholesome medicines), afflictions and sins, by a good use, prove so gainful as nothing more. Words are as they are taken, and things are as they are used. There are even cursed blessings.—Bishop Hall.

Two Sides.
Willis—Why don't you go to church?
Gills—Too far. Why don't you go?
Willis—We live next door to one, and I hate to get all dressed up just to go that little way.—Puck.

FORGOT HER SECOND WEDDING
Woman Signed Her First Married Name to Bank Check and Much Trouble Resulted.

"I lost my identity once for the time being after I was married to my second husband," said a woman who formerly lived in New York city, and who now dwells in a New England town. "Soon after my second marriage," she added, "I withdrew my personal funds from a New York bank and deposited the money in the town where I now live, giving my present name, of course, and leaving my signature. I had no occasion to draw against the deposit for nearly two months, and when I did so I signed my first married name to the check. The person to whom I gave the check did not know I was married to my present husband, as the transaction was one that did not require any mention of my second marriage."

"When the check was sent to my bank in the town where I live it was returned, marked 'No funds.' The check was forwarded to me by the person to whom I gave it, and it was addressed to me as I had signed it. One of the curious things in connection with it was that my present husband is a director of the bank, but, of course, the cashier never thought to ask him, although the bank official knew my other married name. It is the sort of mistake that a woman makes only once."

TWO RATHER BRIGHT DOGS
One Recognized the Letter Was Over-Weight and the Other Perceived Wrong Address.

Two suburbanites, one living near Morton and the other near Primos, were swapping stories of country life as they went home on the 5:35 train.

"I have a most intelligent dog," said the Primos man. "I just hand him a letter and say: 'There, Spot!' and off he goes to the post office. I gave him one yesterday and he dropped it. He refused to pick it up, but wagged his tail instead. I suspected something was wrong and picked up the letter and weighed it. It required two cents more postage."

Without the least show of surprise the man from Morton proceeded with his story.

"Dogs are intelligent," he began. "My collie, Carlo, always posts my letters, and one day he, like your dog, dropped a letter on the floor. I thought possibly one stamp was not enough, but in weighing the letter I found that the postage was all right. I gave it back to Carlo, but he let it fall again to the floor. I inspected the letter carefully and found that it was addressed to South Penn square, New York, instead of to Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Times.

Build an Altar for All.
There was a flat-topped rock covered with stones, and as I was looking a writer in the May Wide World says, several Somali women passed. Each one left the road and, selecting a stone, placed it on the heap. I inquired the reason of this. The Somali version is as follows: In the old days before the Somalis inhabited the country there was a very bad man. After a career of crime, the Prophet All, one of Mohammed's successors, pursued him and caught him up by the big rock. The bad man dodged All round the rock until the prophet, growing furious, drew his sword and split the rock clean in two, and the miscreant with it. In turning to go All's horse kicked, and the marks of his hoofs are shown in two round holes in the otherwise smooth stone. The split rock has just such an appearance, and from time immemorial it has been the custom for women passing to add a stone to the pile on the altar close by. The Somalis have many legends of the people who occupied the country before them, and talk of them as having been Persians.

Peace Wave Swept Ancient Egypt.
Until Cambyses with his Persian myriads swept across defeated Khem, and Phoenicia and Greece, adopting her stored-up wisdom, added thereto the graces of a more artistic ornamentation and aggressive commercial enterprise, Egypt led all nations in the arts of peace and the accumulation of wealth by peaceful trade. And while it is true that individual enterprise was largely hampered by the royal control of foreign trade, it must be remembered that the king acted largely as a trustee for his people and that the Egyptians under most of their sovereigns probably suffered less from plague and famine and were more justly ruled than most of their contemporaries.—"Nobility of the Trades—The Merchant," Charles Winslow Hall, in the National Magazine.

Delusions of the Ear.
There is a cure, it seems, for so-called delusions of the ear in deaf people who think they hear sounds like the whistling of wind, the rustling of leaves, the crackling noises of a telephone, thunder, organ pipes or shouting. Such sounds are remembered, says Doctor Marage, a French aurist, and are caused by persistent excitation of the auditory nerve centers.

He has invented an apparatus for studying these really inaudible but none the less tormenting noises, which are apt to take the form in time of a persistent delusion, and he has succeeded in relieving many sufferers by applications of electric alternating currents of very high frequency or by
